

Criminology and Justice

What factors cause crime rates to increase?

How have technological advances affected crime rates?

Can policing reduce crime?

Is there equality for all before the law?

What is the impact of incarceration on offenders, victims and society as a whole?

How is the meaning of crime constructed through law, political discourse and media coverage?

Is crime an individual- or social-problem?

Criminology is the study of rule-making and rule-breaking. Our program will help you understand and think critically about crime, those who get defined as criminals, and the agencies and participants that make up the criminal justice system.

You may pursue the comprehensive program, or a specialization in Criminal Justice or Youth, Crime and Justice.

Fourth-year practicum and internship options are available.

Enrol in our four-year Criminology and Justice program to find the answers to these questions, and more.

What will I study?

- The Legal System
- Crime in the Media
- Criminal Justice
- Criminal Law
- Diversity and Justice
- Hate Crime
- Policing
- Prosecution and Sentencing
- Social Control and Regulation
- Social Policy
- Theories of Crime
- Victimology
- Youth Crime

What can I do with my degree?

You'll be prepared to pursue graduate, professional and career opportunities such as:

- Correctional Officer/Case Manager
- Government Research and Policy Analyst
- Human Rights Advocate/Community Activist
- Police Officer
- Probation/Parole Officer
- Social Services Worker

Want more information?

Faculty of Social Science and Humanities
2000 Simcoe Street North
Oshawa, Ontario L1G 0C5
Canada

905.721.3190

connect@ontariotechu.ca

ontariotechu.ca/programs

If you require an alternative format of this publication, contact marketing@ontariotechu.ca.

© University of Ontario Institute of Technology 2021. ONTARIO TECH UNIVERSITY and Design, and Tech with a Conscience are trademarks of the University of Ontario Institute of Technology. D5462